

Procore × ProNovos Data Security

Attention Procore Administrators,

We have a comprehensive User Permissions Matrix, which is designed to provide detailed control over the levels of access granted within your environment. This tool allows you to tailor permissions specifically to the needs and roles of different users, ensuring that your subcontractors can utilize tools like ProNovos and only have access to the necessary information required to perform their tasks effectively.

The main three areas that you need to configure in the Matrix for ProNovos are:

- Submittals
- RFIs
- Documents (project level)

As a trusted partner of Procore, you can be reassured that your data is always protected when accessed by ProNovos. Our goal is to enhance your project management capabilities without compromising the security and integrity of your data. We are committed to working within the permissions you set, respecting the boundaries and requirements of your Procore environment.
